

Collaboration beyond Traditions

Kimono New York is dedicated to promoting the use of kimono and obi fabrics for fine furnishings and décor. It is located in the heart of New York City's garment district and offers designers and manufacturers access to over 50 of Japan's top-rate kimono and obi producers. Kimono New York also promotes the use of natural fibers for fabric production and environmentally sustainable design.

The tradition of the kimono and its intricate hand-woven silk fabrics date back over a millennium and are a fundamental part of Japan's cultural heritage. An Obi is a broad sash that ties a kimono together. It is our mission to help sustain and support this tradition by encouraging the Japanese to wear the kimono and by introducing Americans to the timeless beauty of kimono and obi fabrics.

We partner with American designers and manufacturers to create fine décor using these fabrics and provide unparalleled access to Japan's top fabric producers. As part of our mission, we endorse environmentally sustainable design by working only with fabric manufacturers that use natural fibers.
