Studio V-2 Light Weight, Flush Wood Door

Developed primarily for our high-end residential clients, some of the most discerning we've ever met, incorporating precious materials because they want them, our V1 door was born.

For the commercial market we include our engineered, light weight offering to this tier. The construction is hollowed out, then stabilized with an additional layer of 2.3mm thick hardboard. It can also be used in our V1 line as well.

The result, an over built, light weight, 100% stable slab over which we veneer. We can also provide these in lacquered finish, or perhaps one of our textured panel products.

In addition, we have also developed a step beyond this to be launched mid to late 2020. It's even more light weight, but no less stable.
